ALIVE by the James

Adventures in Leadership through Investigation and Visitation in the Environment

Monday through Saturday
July 21 – 26, 2008

James River State Park
Buckingham, Virginia

Are you connected to your environment?

Are you a responsible citizen?

Do you know about your watershed?

Learning Tracts

Campers will learn about watersheds, biological and chemical sampling, forestry and soils. As a group, the campers will conduct a stream bank stabilization project.

Youth will be immersed in studies of environmental education specifically related to the James River Watershed as part of the Chesapeake Bay Watershed. Additionally, campers will learn more about Virginia's state parks in hopes that they will develop an enjoyment, appreciation and better understanding of Virginia's great outdoors.

Campers will be encouraged to keep field notes of learning tract activities.

ALIVE Leadership Project

Campers are expected to leave ALIVE by the James with a plan for sharing what they have learned with others in their home communities. Throughout the week, campers will take field notes and make journal entries. These field journals will serve as a personal reminder of the camper's experiences. Additionally, campers will work as individuals or in small groups to create a plan of action for sharing their experiences with others (i.e. speaking to a class at school or to their board of supervisors, writing an article for the paper, etc.)

Tips on talking to members of the community will be a part of the learning tract.

Lodging

ALIVE by the James campers will be housed in the brand new cabins at James River State Park. Each camper will have his or her own bed or bunk, but will share living space. All lodging is gender specific. The adult to teen ratio is 1:6 in the cabins and during all activities.

During the week, campers will work cooperatively with their cabin mates to prepare group meals and keep the park facilities clean.

Campers will stay in modern cabins at James River State Park.

Description

ALIVE by the James will be the premier watershed experience for high school youth across the Commonwealth of Virginia. The week-long, overnight camp is open to 48 youth who will be divided into four groups of 12 each for the duration of the week. In addition to learning tracts, time will be spent on recreation such as canoeing, tubing, volleyball, horseshoes, geocaching and more. There will also be a variety of exciting evening programs offered.
